EBERHARD FABER MONGOL Coloured Indelible Pencils

Assortment No. 741. 3/6 each.
12 Pencils—12 Colours.

MONGOL COLOURED PENCILS are made for the scientific use of colour.

1. They supplement coloured ink, having a mark equally indelible, equally brilliant, and are much easier to apply.
2. They last three times as long as any ordinary coloured pencils.
3. They can be sharpened without breaking to needle points for drawing the finest lines.
4. They are the only pencils that can be generally used for any kind of mechanical drawing and designing work.
4. They are perfect for checking and all usual colour work.

THE CALENDARS.

The Jewish is in accordance with the system arranged A.D. 358. The Calendar dates from the Creation, which is fixed as 3760 years and 3 months before the beginning of the Christian Era; the year is Luni-solar.

The Mohammedan, or era of the Hejira, dates from the day after Mahomet's flight from Mecca, which occurred on the night of July 15, 622 A.D. The months are Lunar.

The Fasli year was derived from a combination of the Hejira and Samvat years by the order of Akbar; it is Luni-solar. The Bengali year seems also to have been related at one time to the Hejira, but the fact of its being Solar made it lose 11 days each year.

The Samvat era dates from 57 B.C., and is Luni-solar. The months are divided into two fortnights—sudi, or bright, and badi, or dark. Each fortnight contains 15 tithis, which furnish the dates of the civil days given in our calendars.

INSURANCE.

By H. S. KING.

NOBODY who has taken the trouble to examine the figures, questions the value, as an investment, of what is called Endowment insurance. An Endowment insurance, of course, is a policy under which the insurance company undertakes to pay a sum of money at the end of a stated number of years. The policy may be one of two kinds: a Without-Profit policy, under which a definite amount will become payable; or a With-Profit policy, under which additions are made—usually year by year—so that at the end of the term the amount payable is increased to maybe half as much again, or even double, the original sum insured.

Now in this world you never get something worth having for nothing and naturally the cost of the With-Profit policy is greater than that for the Without-Profit policy. But as an insurance office can always invest its funds more profitably than the private individual the With-Profit policy is usually a better proposition from the point of view of investment.

But although an absolutely safe and profitable investment is a desirable thing it is not the only, or the most important, feature of an insurance contract. The main object of life insurance is to provide against the chances—and the consequences—of premature death; to create a substantial estate by means of a comparatively small payment.

From this point of view the Without-Profit Endowment policy is to be preferred to that which secures a share in the profits. But, again from this point of view, there is a still better contract; what is called a Whole Life policy, that is a policy which provides for the payment of the sum insured whenever death occurs.

Whole Life policies fall into four classes: (a) Policies which provide a stated sum in return for payments which are continued throughout life. (b) Policies which provide a stated sum and Bonus additions (that is a share in the profits) for payments throughout life. (c) Policies which provide a stated sum in return for premiums which cease at a specified age. (d) Policies which provide a stated sum and Bonus additions for premiums which cease at a specified age.

For the young married man with a small salary and large family responsibilities (a) is probably the most desirable form of insurance protection. Writing on the subject of insurance, in last year's edition of Lett's Diary, I gave examples of recent insurance claims paid. In one case £800 had been paid although only one premium, of £3 11s. 4d., had been received.

For those who are less restricted for funds the most satisfactory form of Whole Life policy is (d). Not only does the policyholder share in the profits but continues to do so after he ceases to pay premiums. Here is an example which I have taken from the Prospectus of a well-known Company:—a man aged thirty next birthday, for a net outlay of £50 a year, payable up to age 60, is insured for £4,284 by the time he reaches the allotted span of three-score years and ten. I am assuming here that the Company's present rate of Bonus is no more than maintained. All told it will have cost him £1,500 for an insurance that starts at £2,100 and goes on increasing at the rate of £54 a year.

4,400 PER CENT!

THAT is what the white magic of life assurance can achieve.

A man took out a Prudential policy and paid one premium, of £11 5s. Within twelve months a cheque for £500 was handed to his widow.

This is not an isolated example. Each year scores of death claims are paid by the Prudential after only one Premium has been paid.

£1,000

of life assurance costs a man aged 30 next birthday about £23 a year. Allowing for income tax rebate, at 2/- in the £, his yearly outlay is £20:16:5

And each year, at the present rate of bonus, there would be added to the sum which will eventually become payable £26, that is about

£5 MORE THAN HE EXPENDS

ANY AGE—ANY AMOUNT

An enquiry for further particulars will cost you nothing.

THE BURBERRY

The World's Best Weatherproof and
One of the World's Best Overcoats

Assures protection and comfort in every kind of weather. It keeps its wearer
DRY when it rains—WARM when it's cold—COOL on close days
Antagonistic to all damp, rain falls off its surface like water from a duck's back.
Closely-woven, it conserves warmth by excluding cold winds.
Light and air-free, it is worn on warm days without overheating.

The Burberry Book containing illustrations of models, patterns of materials, and prices, sent post free on mention of Let's Diary.
